

"Hacks! The Latest Technology Tricks You Need to Be Doing In Your Small- to Mid-Size Business"

Meet Our Panelists!

Jami Becker is the owner and Creative Experience Officer of Nomad Candy and is a Digital Strategist and Tech Innovator. She is able to Architect, Develop + Design solutions for mobile, web, backend & AI/VR/AR/360 projects. She is a master at turning any software idea into a concrete comprehensible reality with a deep understanding of both design + development. Presently, she spends the majority of her time as a part owner at AgVoice where she helps craft Digital Strategy and Designs and Develops their Voice to Text Mobile App currently being deployed for big Agra.

Natasha Wilson was born and raised in Atlanta, Ga. She is currently a student at Georgia State University studying Computer Science. During her matriculation at GSU, she is involved in the Women in Technology and Softer Touch organizations. In her free time, she manages her Graphic and Web design business, Tasha Taira Creative Hub & Assist. Her experience in the professional IT industry began in the summer of 2014 when she interned for AT&T Inc. as a Program Manager in the Technology Development Program. In addition, she returned to the TDP organization to gain more experience for 4 consecutive summers. From utilizing the Agile methodology to managing sprint timelines and deliverables, Natasha maintained technical expectations while using key frameworks, business tools and languages.

In March 2016, Natasha joined the Microsoft Corporation as a Product Advisor. Within a year of maintaining expert-level product knowledge, she was able to transition to the role of a Services Advisor. Currently, Wilson takes complete joy in implementing high-value Microsoft technology solutions in a fast-paced, dynamic, public-facing environment.

Mark Galvin, President and Founder of ePresence, LLC, is a social media expert with 33 years of business management experience. He is a digital marketer that specializes in blending technology, marketing, networking and social branding. Mark's company, ePresence, LLC, founded in 2015, manages social media for organizations, companies, individual business professionals, college students, and more. His ePublicists execute a custom social media plan and serve as an extension of a marketing team or personal social media curators. Additional services offered increase career opportunities for college students and established professionals.

Widely considered a pioneering leader in social media, Mark is frequently called as a commentator on key issues. He has served as the social media expert for WSB's "Lenz on Business" radio show and been a guest on numerous podcasts. He hosts "How's Your ePresence?" both Business RadioX and his own podcast channel where he keeps his audience aware of current social media trends.

Mark welcomes the opportunity to speak to your listeners and viewers and can be reached at mgalvin@epresence.me or 404.939.8094.

